

GEORGE
UNIVERSITY

Ras Al Khaimah

The Premiere United States University Campus in the United Arab Emirates

Innovative, Interdisciplinary, Interactive

George Mason University at Ras Al Khaimah offers you the advantage of an American-style education.

- Innovative—George Mason University programs are closely aligned with advances in business and industry. Faculty members bring current knowledge alive in the classroom by balancing their experience with leading research in their fields.
- Interdisciplinary—To be successful as a graduate, you need knowledge to match your skills. George Mason University provides you with focused training in your major, complemented by a broad base of information drawn from relevant fields. From business to government to engineering, your chances for success will increase from a curriculum tailored to meet the needs of the real world.

- Interactive—Your success also requires the ability to handle communication flow. Many universities think you can learn enough just by listening to lectures and that passively receiving information is sufficient. At George Mason University, you will get the information you need and much more. Faculty members will invite you to discuss the ideas being presented. Your understanding of new concepts will be matched by the ability to express and promote your ideas.

Among its numerous distinctions, George Mason University was the first institution in the world to offer a doctoral program in information technology (IT). As a result, it is also home to the first engineering school focused on IT. U.S. faculty members include two Nobel Prize winners in the economic sciences, the leading researchers in proteomic medicine in the world, and the world's leading team of computer scientists using neuroscience to develop artificial intelligence systems that mirror brain function.

Admission

Admission to George Mason University at RAK is more competitive and somewhat more complicated than admission to most schools in the region. This is to your advantage! When you are admitted, you are given more than admission to just one campus—you become part of one of the world's most prestigious and global academic institutions. You will be a George Mason University student, with the ability to enroll at any of our campuses and entitled to the same academic quality and opportunities as students in the United States.

Because you will be a fully admitted student to all of our campuses, our admissions process is the same as for students applying to our U.S.A.

campuses. While this may require higher standards and more exertion than other institutions in the region, your admission will offer you access to degrees well worth the effort.
