Sustained Dialogue has its roots in
(1) The Arab-Israeli Peace Process of the 1970s (See Appendix in the 2014 second edition of Saunders, Politics Is about Relationship) and
(2) The Dartmouth Conference Regional Conflicts Task Force (See Chapters 4-8 in Saunders, Sustained Dialogue in Conflicts (2011)). This ~~folder~~ archive provides an incomparable record of the latter.

This archive is unique. Nowhere else will you find near verbatim transcripts of dialogues in which participants were learning — not consciously at the time — how to talk in depth about the relationship between two nuclear superpowers.

From this experience, I, <sup>eventually</sup> conceptualized the five-stage dialogue process and almost simultaneously — although less directly from the dialogue — the concept of relationship.

The Task Force was formed in 1981 at the 13th meeting of the Dartmouth Conference, which met first in 1960 (see attached list of meetings)
